

Announcement for part-time teachers

We are looking for 1-2 part-time instructors to teach a grammar and composition course to first-year students at Obihiro University of Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine. The positions would begin April, 2017.

Job details:

Teach three sections of a 2-credit 90-minute class (15 class meetings) in the spring and three sections in the fall. Students are expected at the end of the second semester to write short (1-3 pages) essays. Courses meet once a week and are taught mostly in English. We are looking for someone who is experienced in using a learning management system (Moodle) because it will be an integral part of the course design.

In the spring the English I: Grammar and Composition classes are on Thursday in the 2nd, 3rd and 4th periods. In the fall the English II: Grammar and Composition classes are on Wednesday in the 1st, 2nd and 3rd periods.

Due to the first-period class in the fall semester, persons living outside Obihiro would need to come and stay in Obihiro the day before, and the university would cover the cost of the hotel. Transportation to Obihiro from Hokkaido locations will be reimbursed as long as they are within a reasonable distance.

Qualifications:

A minimum of a master's degree is needed. Experience in teaching writing courses is also desired. University and college teaching experience preferred.

Native English speaker or near-native speaker is acceptable.

Application procedure:

Email a resume with contact information, teaching experience, and educational background to the contact person below.
